"NIL DESPERANDUM, AUSPICE DEO."—(Motto.)

"AUDEMUS JURA NOSTRA DEFENDERE."—(Motto.)

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 16, 1861.

1st. Debt and Nat. Credit.

In our last packet-edition we congratulated Buenos Aires on the good faith and honesty displayed in the treatment of the National debt. We noticed the justice of paying the obligations of the 13 provinces whose revenues are in the hands of the new Government. We did, moreover, call the fair reputation which would attach itself to the Congress of '62, by disregarding the suggestion of a hateful bigotry, and honorably accepting on one broad basis the claims of all state-creditors, irrespective of political color.

The Creed of nations, as well as of Philosophy, contains the important dogma "pay your debts" and the Gospel tells us we must "give to Cæsar what belongs to Cæsar". Yet there are some of our colleagues who pretend to be versed in the law of Nations, to have studied philosophy, and who profess Christianity, who prate and preach the immoral thesis that Congress should not recognise the Paraná Bonds, because they were held by Mr. Buschental, because value was not given, because the sums advanced were for a bad purpose, &c. The Senate very properly turned a deaf ear to such insinuations, alike discreditable to Law, Philosophy and Christianity: they held that Mr Buschental, or any other, though perhaps neither a Lawyer, Philosopher, nor Christian, had a perfect right to be paid according to his legally established vouchers.

But if we enter into the real merits, we shall find that some 22 of our leading English houses are holders of these Bonds, nor are we aware that Mr Buschental possesses 5 per cent. of the 3 millions in question. As to the second plea, insufficient value, this is ridiculous, in face of a closed bargain: as well might some subscriber to the Tribuna, refuse to pay for the past month, alleging that the bathers articles were worth 30$: and this excuse would also apply to the bad purposes, since the anti-capitalization project is as dangerous as war itself.

These remarks are idle, and the scribblers who wish to bully at the demand, which they have almost lost the courage to repudiate, try now a new tactic. We see a diminutive article (14 1/2 lines) in yesterday's "Tribuna" which, half-ashamed of its own ugly head, peeps out from the surrounding verbiage to say—it were better to postpone the Paraná Bonds until next year's session. The officers to show how desperate is the case of those who object to the payment. When a man is doomed to be hanged he generally says "give me a long day, my lord"; and so our colleague, seeing all hope gone of defeating the demand of our merchants, begs as a dernier resort to put off the payment sine die.

This is ignoble and unloyal. We can understand and pity the victims of party-spirit say boldly "let us pay none of the Bonds". This is at least frank, if not just: but the creditor, who is compelled like a patient tailor to wait day after day, should not be put off indefinitely. If the delay were necessary or bona fide, the Custom-houses should be delivered over to the holders of the Bonds. The matter is confessedly important, and therefore claims precedence. We rest assured that the Deputies to-day will imitate their Senatorial brethren; they may not sanction the bill nem. con.; but they will at least vindicate the credit and reputation of the Republic from the repudiating policy of a colleague whom we have before advised to study ethics.

Fair Play for Irishmen.

It is refreshing to find, for the first time, a native journal do justice to our countrymen of the county, who are the real benefactors of the Province. For years, the Irish shepherds have labored with perseverance to make Buenos Ayres famous for its wool; the province industry represented in twice last year over one-half the total exports. Yet a truckling scribbler of the "Tribuna" had the audacity to write that "Irishmen were the greatest savages on earth", and the other papers, studiously ungrateful, never acknowledged the least merit in our countrymen. The moribund and insulting print which gravely told us that Cork was in Holland, that Rome was styled the Holy City that Irish Cardinals were found in the Vatican" &c. might well claim indulgence on the plea of invincible ignorance: the "Tribuna" labored with Minelli to upset the Bible, as they had already confounded history and geography. We rejoice therefore that the subjoined article comes from a native pen, and is free from aspersions of all clime, partiality, ribaldry & error

We extract as follows from the Nacion Argentina.

On Saturday last, was sold by auction, under the Bolsita, the suerte de estancia about three quarters of a league square, for the sum of $010,000 $ m/c. The land is situated in Par ido of Lux an, about 17 leagues from town, and has realised the largest price ever known in this country. Sor. Lezama lately sold a league of camp for 1,300,000$, but this included some splendid plantations, fine buildings &c. with a better situation and richer land.

Buenos Ayres is now beginning to reap the fruit of her sacrifices.

The era of prosperity for the Republic is heralded by facts and figures which nobody can deny. We are this in the full of specie 30 $ per doubloon—and in the increased value of land.

It is unnecessary to state that the purchaser was an Irishman. Who can pay 1,010,000 $ for three leagues of land, unless an Irishman? It was also an Irishman who bought Sor. Lezama's estancia.

The fact is that Irishmen pay for land, and no one else can afford; and hence they are becoming owners of the best lands in the Province. There are whole Partidos in the, North belonging exclusively to Irishmen

At this rate no one can cope with them. Persevering and laborious, their first aspiration, their leading passion, is a flock of sheep, and, after that, a piece of ground whereon to feed them. Be sure that with Irishmen for 10 years back have been working an incredible revolution in the country.

In the midst of our wars, in spite of disturbances, drought, and depreciation of produce, they have kept up the value of land and gradually increased the figure to an amount which the most sanguine could never have expected.

The pastoral industry must undergo a change in sight of the rise in land. It is ascertained that a field of green alfalfa will support seven times as many sheep as virgin camp, and if the alfalfa be cut, double that number. We will have yet to bring 100,000 sheep to feed on a league of land, we if do not wish to remain 100 years behind.

Meantime it is but just to acknowledge that Irishmen are the apostles of the great pacific and moralising revolution in which we are all following. We hope they will continue to buy land by the million.

Editor's Table.

The Bank question is the great topic of the day. People are beginning to open their eyes to the fact that the 'Casa de Moneda' is no Bank at all. This question comes rather opportune at present, as it will induce many to deal with the Mauá Bank or the new River Plate Bank, who otherwise would have continued with the antiquated institutions.

The Bank alleges that in no country is one Bank obliged to receive deposits from another, but we deny this, and on the contrary assert that the Bank of Ireland receives deposits from all the Provincial Banks throughout the island, at the usual rate of interest, and lends to these banks at a lower rate than to the public. This may be called a Bank; its dividend is nearly equal to 10 per cent, and its stock 135 above par. General Mitre would do better to send the young Fortescue to Dublin, to study the science of banking, than to Paris to study the arts", and the other papers, studiously ungrateful, never acknowledged the least merit in our countrymen. The moribund and insulting print which gravely told us that Cork was in Holland, that Rome was styled the Holy City that Irish Cardinals were found in the Vatican" &c. might well claim indulgence on the plea of invincible ignorance: the "Tribuna" labored with Minelli to upset the Bible, as they had already confounded history and geography. It is unnecessary to state that the purchaser was an Irishman. Who can pay 1,010,000 $ for three leagues of land, unless an Irishman? It was also an Irishman who bought Sor. Lezama's estancia.

The fact is that Irishmen pay for land, and no one else can afford; and hence they are becoming owners of the best lands in the Province. There are whole Partidos in the, North belonging exclusively to Irishmen

At this rate no one can cope with them. Persevering and laborious, their first aspiration, their leading passion, is a flock of sheep, and, after that, a piece of ground whereon to feed them. Be sure that with Irishmen for 10 years back have been working an incredible revolution in the country.

In the midst of our wars, in spite of disturbances, drought, and depreciation of produce, they have kept up the value of land and gradually increased the figure to an amount which the most sanguine could never have expected.

The pastoral industry must undergo a change in sight of the rise in land. It is ascertained that a field of green alfalfa will support seven times as many sheep as virgin camp, and if the alfalfa be cut, double that number. We will have yet to bring 100,000 sheep to feed on a league of land, we if do not wish to remain 100 years behind.

Meantime it is but just to acknowledge that Irishmen are the apostles of the great pacific and moralising revolution in which we are all following. We hope they will continue to buy land by the million.

The Bank question is the great topic of the day. People are beginning to open their eyes to the fact that the 'Casa de Moneda' is no Bank at all. This question comes rather opportune at present, as it will induce many to deal with the Mauá Bank or the new River Plate Bank, who otherwise would have continued with the antiquated institutions.

The Bank alleges that in no country is one Bank obliged to receive deposits from another, but we deny this, and on the contrary assert that the Bank of Ireland receives deposits from all the Provincial Banks throughout the island, at the usual rate of interest, and lends to these banks at a lower rate than to the public. This may be called a Bank; its dividend is nearly equal to 10 per cent, and its stock 135 above par. General Mitre would do better to send the young Fortescue to Dublin, to study the science of banking, than to Paris to study the arts", and the other papers, stu-

The arrival of the Raymond with over 200 Irish immigrants is an event significant of the times we live in. Since the foundation of Buenos Ayres by Garay, this is the largest number of Irish immigrants ever landed on these shores. We give them a hearty welcome, and hope that, after the lapse of a few years, we will see them attending land auctions, etc. There is no reason why they should not be as successful as their predecessors. They may, and no doubt will, have many difficulties to contend with in the beginning, but by a steady, persevering industry, they will ultimately attain to the position which, we are proud to say, all the old Irish residents in this country at present occupy. We call upon all our country friends who want peons, etc, to at once communicate with us, as the sooner all the strong, able-bodied men are out of the city, and helping at the shearing, the better.

It affords us sincere pleasure to inform our readers that there is now every probability that Sr. Ram's project will be successfully carried out. Sr R. has promised to favor us with a full prospectus, giving all details of the enterprise, which we intend to publish as we regard the matter as one fraught with the most inculcable results to this country.

The French packet is expected to day: we hope she won't keep us waiting as long this month as she did last.

The news from the country parts is of the most cheering nature: the camps since the rain are beautiful; the September lamb ing is nearly over, and farmers seem well contented with the result. In some parts, however there has been a great loss of lambs, owing to a disease called the cramp. Many estancieros have requested us to call public attention to this matter, as possibly there may be some farmers who know some infallible remedy. We are acquainted with one estanciero who has lost over 1500 lambs this season, by this disease: he would be a benefactor, indeed, who would point out how to cure some cure the fattest and finest lambs in a flock are generally the ones which fall a victim to its ravages.

The auction sale by Mr. Billinghurst, of 3000 mestiza ewes on the estancia of Mr. Henry Moore deceased, in partido Cerdito, came off rather well there was a large attendance of buyers, and the sheep sold for their full value. Probably nothing is more saleable at press a than good sheep: we call attention to the great Rau auction which is to come off on the 9th instant our country friends who want to supply themselves with really good animals would do well to attend.

We call particular attention to the sale of sheep which is advertised in another column, the place where the sale is to take place is not far from Moreno. ...

In a few weeks, we learn our enterprising friends Messrs Bernal & Carrega will start every Sunday morning an excursion steamer to the bont, will leave at 8 O'C. and proceed by Colonia and back: it will be a pleasant trip, and we have no doubt will pay well.

Ship Cruelties

Subjoined is the com,laint of eight of the passengers by La Zingara, which had come to our ears some time back. Our rule is to support the weaker side, and we made enquiries about this case, but feel bound to say that the majority of the passengers state they have been well treated by Captain Sanders. It is remarkable that out of 251, only 8 have signed this complaint, which does not specify a single case of improper care. The captain is bound to demand an explanation of the 8 individuals below named.

To the Editors of the STANDARD.

Sirs.

We the undersigned passengers of the "La Zingara" captain Saunders, beg leave to call the attention of the public through the medium of your circulated paper to the shameful state in which he treated us in his late passage to this country, and subjected us to the privations of hunger and nakedness during a passage of 62 days from Liverpool, during which time we often claimed a lawful portion of sound rations, in lieu of which we only received a scanty measure of the worst quality, so bad indeed that, to avoid its becoming a proof of the truth of what we now assert, that it was put overboard. We will corroborate these statements personally if called to proof and we moreover certify, according to our experience and personal knowledge of the conduct of captain Saunders, that he is very ill-deserving the least patronage of our friends and countrymen in his present profession occupation.

Signed.

FOREIGN MISCELLANY.

Peat v. Coal.

The bogs of Ireland have hitherto been considered a great national evil, except where their extent was merely sufficient to supply the inhabitants in the interior of the island with fuel. But even as a source of fuel supply the bogs have not been much prized, except by the peasantry; for at best "turf" is an expensive and troublesome sort of fuel, creating constant dust in apartments, and requiring incessant attention. Besides this, there is the great risk of losing the crop—if we may so apply the term—in the event of a wet summer, as was unfortunately the case last year, which has led to a great portion of the sufferings of the people in many parts of Ireland during the last eight months. Science, and ingenuity have, however, come to the aid of the bogs at a moment when they were most decried; and it would seem that the half-prized peat is likely to become a source of national wealth, rivalling the coal-fields of England and Wales. An invention has been patented by which peat can be converted, in any weather and at an immense reduction of the present cost, into a fuel possessing greater heating power and absolutely cheaper than coal. We have seen a specimen of this condensed peat, and, for lightness, cleanliness, and excellence as fuel it cannot be surpassed. The important question now, however, whether it was suitable to the generation of steam by locomotives; for, as the Irish coal-fields are very few, and have not, except in Kilkenny, been much worked, expense of the working of railways in Ireland was considerably enhanced by the necessity of importing British coal. That question has, we are extremely glad to learn, from the subjoined report from a Dublin paper, been solved in the affirmative; and it may now be fairly assumed that the Irish bogs, from being a drug in the market, will become a source of national wealth:—

BALLYMENA, Saturday.—To-day the condensed peat fuel, the manufacture of which has been carried on for some time at this town, under the management of Mr. Ponsonby Moore and Mr. Tennent, was again tried for locomotive purposes on the ordinary train, leaving Belfast at half-past nine o'clock Mr. Stephenson, resident engineer of the Ulster Railway Company; Mr. Donville, resident engineer, of the County Down Railway Company; Mr. Yorston, Locomotive Superintendent of the Northern Counties Railway Company; Mr. Tennent, &c, travelled on the engine to watch the experiment, and test the properties of the peat as a fuel for generating steam. The result was the most satisfactory that could even be desired. A smaller quantity of peat than is necessary of coal was found sufficient to produce steam, and in a much shorter period of time after the fire being lighted the required supply of steam power was raised. The quantity of steam generated was so great that it was found advisable to endeavour to reduce the heat; and for this purpose the damper was put on, and the door of the fire-box kept open during almost the entire journey.

To show how successful the experiment was, perhaps a better proof could not be given than to state the fact, that, going up the incline from the Carrickfergus Junction, where the gradient is nearly 1 in 70, steam was sustained at 100lbs, and on the rest of the line it went up to 110lbs, and 112 lbs, falling occasionally when water was being let into the boiler to 90lbs. The whole trial was such as to give the surest guarantee that the condensed peat fuel would quickly supersede coal for locomotive purposes, if it could only be supplied at as cheap a rate; and of this the gentlemen engaged in the project feel the utmost confidence.—Standard.

It would be extraordinary indeed if after centuries of reproach against the Irish bogs, "turf" should in the end become a tough rival of the "black diamond" upon which England so justly plumes herself.

The apparatus used in producing this valuable peat fuel is we understand very simple and by no means expensive, and may be purchased of the patentee by any person who may prefer this mode of preparing turf to the present hazardous and expensive method of cutting, spreading, footing &c., which after all too often turns out to be only labour in vain.

INTERNATIONAL LAW.—A singular case, which raises a question of international law has come before Baron Fitzgerald, at Dublin, sitting in chamber. In the case of Thompson v. Knox, an action on a promissory note made at Charleston, South Carolina, and payable at the People's Bank, in the Federal States. Mr. Henderson, moved, on behalf of defendant, for leave to file a special defence under the following circumstances: Plaintiff was a citizen of the Confederate States, and defendant of the Federal States, but now residing in Ireland. Since the breaking out of hostilities between the Northern and Southern States a law had been passed by the Federal Government by which all citizens of the Federal States were prohibited from paying any debts they owed to any citizen of the Confederate States, on pain of being treated as a traitor A law further directed that in such cases the debtor was to pay the amount into the treasury of the United States, and this the defendant alleged had been done by his partner in America. Counsel stated that his client would be liable to be hanged if he paid the debt. The Court granted leave to file the defence.

—THE WEATHER AND CROPS IN SCOTLAND.—The expectation that the weather would improve when the summer solstice was past has not yet been realised. This week some of the days have been tolerable those in March than July, being cold and stormy, with occasional heavy showers. The crops are looking well, considering the backward weather, and hay is unusually abundant, but unless a change takes place it will be greatly damaged by the rain. New potatoes are plentiful in the market of good quality, but there are already rumours of the appearance of the disease in some districts. The continued rains have damaged the fruit crop a good deal, which otherwise would have been unusually abundant. The accounts of the harvest from the Continent and America are not very encouraging, a deficiency being generally anticipated. Yesterday the weather was more genial than it has been for some time, and fine July might do much to remedy the damage sustained by the crops from unseasonable June.

LOCAL EVENTS.

PRESIDENCY.—The elections were postponed by Congress until Sunday proximo at the request of General Mitre.

MEDAL.—That which was being prepared in Montevideo for General Zarogoza of Mexico is nearly ready: we fear it will be too late.

CONGRESS.—To-day will be engaged with the public debt of the Confederation and law of public lands.

REMARK.—The Custom House offices will shortly be removed to the S. uthern part of that building to make place for some of those of the National Government.

DISASTER.—On Sunday a schooner from Entre Rios foundered in the outer roads, the crew having succeeded in saving themselves.

The cargo consisting of 25 pipes tallow and a few hundred dry hides was lost.

DR. JAVIERA CABRERA.—Sister of the mobtoneros (marauders) who played such a prominent part in the civil war of this country has just died in Chile.

Her brothers banished from Chile in 1820 fled into the Argentine Republic and began to collect followers for an invasion of Chile: the Government naturally endeavored to prevent them and they were forced to fight in self-defence in alliance with General Lopez Governor of Santa Fé.

Strange to say these Carreras, men of no mean intelligence or education, gave themselves up to the disgusting monotonera war of the time calling to their cause all the bandits in the republic and succeeded unfortunately in disorganising the country and pr paving the way for the Dictatorship of Rosas.

ORELIE ANTOINE I.—Emperor o Araucania has been sentenced by the Courts in Chile to be shut up in a lunatic asylum.

This eccentric Frenchman endeavoured to persuade the Chilian Indians to abandon their allegiance and pu themselves under his orders so as to establish a new kingdom.

The Frenchman was a very wide awake and energetic fellow, and had he succeeded he would have given considerable trouble both to the Chilians and ourselves.

MONTE VIDEO.—The newspaper editors have been notified by the authorities that they must abstain from making severe comments in the present religious question, which attracts so much attention in that city.

CEMETERY.—The project for a new Cemetery south of this city like many others in the municipality lies quietly without any decision—until some future day—equivalent to two or three days.

REPAIRS are to be made in the steamer "25 de Mayo". Interested parties may apply at the commissariat Department on or before the 6th October.

PATENTS.—Petitions have been presented for a patent for wire cable fences, another for a preparation destined for the preservation of toes and another for the invention of net-fishing!!

TOM FOOLERY.—D. Francisco Bolsa has given notice to the Fiscal stating that the Bishop, in contravention of the laws of the country, calls himself publicly Bishop by the grace of God and the Holy See, instead of by the Gove rnm ent who is the patron o the Buenos Aires church.

GENERAL CENSUS.—By virtue of a new law, a census is to be taken in all the Provinces of the Republic.

THE CAPITAL.—Congress has accepted the law making Buenos Aires the capital as sanctioned by the Provincial Legislature.

For Saturday 2,035 sold at $408—9 and 1390 for various dates of the month of October at $407 @ 408 @ 412. Total sales 12,971 ounces.

We notice a slight improvement in sales at the places, which we made a follow:

Wool—1000 arrobas good merino wool at $65; 800 do, do. at $73; 400 do. do. at $80 and 880 do. borrega at $57.

Camp sides—180 common cowhs at $128; 400 do. do. at $125; 700 do

...$120 and 120 inferior do. at $115.

Sheep skins—100 dozen fine at $140 @ 30 do at 116; 30 do. at 105; 30 do. at 100; 800 do. at 93; 749 do. from the river, duty paid, 96 1/2 and 300 dozen lamb skins at 9. We hear that a few parcels have been sold at 180.

Hair. 40 arrobes from the South $ 105; 30 do at $ 107.

At the Bolsa very little business doing and the only sales we know of are as follows.

Salted hides 200 ox and cow from the rivers at 42 rs for the novillos and 38 rs for cows

Bones 20,000 marrow bones at $200 per mil, and 0 tons common camp bones at 300

Dry Hides—A sale of 1000 Entre Rianos has been reported at private terms.

Our colleagues the Nacion and Register report yesterday, 20,000 marrow bones sold at 12 patacones: read 12 1/2, as in yesterday's Standard.

There was a little more animation on the Bolsa to-day than usual. The sales for cash appear to have been more for the meeting of contracts coming due than from bona fide transactions by outsiders, much speculation appears to exist some few parties seem determined to keep specie up even though the majority of the brokers are become bears.

The transactions in produce have not been so small as heretofore and exporters seem more in earnest about buying than heretofore.

Hides for Marseilles and Havre are greatly looked for in the Montevideen market and cannot be found.

"Les renseignements les plus satisfaisants sur la situation de notre établissement en Cochinchine sont parvenus au ministre de la marine et des colonies par le dernier courrier.

"Profitant de la saison pendant laquelle la Cochinchine du Nord, et Hué en particulier, devaient s'approvisionner de riz du côté de la mer, l'amiral Bonard a envoyé une première fois le Forbin, qui vaut la rivière de Hué, avec la mission de recevoir, si comme on le disait, telle était l'intention du roi Tu-Duc, des envoyés chargés de conclure la paix, tout en leur signifiant que, s'ils novaient pas pour traiter d'une manière sérieuse, il était décidé à poursuivre les hostilités avec vigeur.

"La réponse à cette communication que le gouvernement d'Hué remit au commandant du Forbin, tout en témoignant du désir que la paix fut conclue, n'était pas assez explicite sur l'amiral, vit des lenteurs dans le but de gagner du temps et de laisser pendant les pourparlers, un lui proposait de se rendre, pour en tamer ces négociations, pour faire traité définitif, dans une des provinces non soumises à l'autorité française, ou il devait trouver les envoyés de l'empire d'Annam.

"A la réception de cette lettre, écrit l'amiral Bonard, j'ai envoyé le Forbin devant Hué. avec un ultimatum posant les conditions préliminaires sans lesquelles je ne pouvais traiter.

"Ces conditions, qui avaient pour objet de me donner une preuve matérielle de la ferme intention du gouvernement de Hué de traiter sérieusement de la paix, et d'après les bas s que le gouvernement de l'Empereur avait le droit d'exiger, étaient :

"1° De verser à bord du Forbin une somme de 100,000 ligatoures, en à-compte sur le montant des indemnités à régler entre les plenipotentiaires;

"2° D'envoyer sur le territoire occupé par la France des personnes d'un rang élévé, munies de pleins pouvoirs pour venir recevoir les conditions auxquelles le gouvernement de de l'empereur voulait bien accorder la paix.

"Le versement en numéraire devait être fait dans un délai de trois jours. et j'avais assigné huit jours, comme limite extrême, pour l'embarquement des plenipotentiaires.

"Cet ultimatum a été accepté. et, dans les délais prescrits, le versement en numéraire a été opéré à bord du Forbin, en rade de Hué. Une corvette du roi Tu-Duc a été immédiatement armée et remarquée par le Forbin; elle est arrivée à saigon le 26 de ce mois avec deux ambassadeurs, le premier du nom de Phan Thany Giang, secrétaire d'Etat, ministre des rites et grand mandarin de navires(ong Thuong Bac); le second, du nom de Lam Duong Hiep, officier général, ministre de l'armée. "Ces deux plénipotentiaries ont une suite composée de 120 personnes (officiers, secrétaires, huissiers, surnumérateurs et soldats). Leurs pouvoirs ayant été vérifiés et reconnus en régle et suffisants pour terminer le traité de paix à Saigon même, je vais immédiatement entrer en conférences avec eux pour arrêter les dispositions de ce traité.

PAR

VICTOR HUGO.

(Suite.)

Tout d'abord, avant même de s'examiner et de réfléchir, éperdu, comme quelqu'un qui cherche à se sauver, il tâcha de retrouver l'enfant pour lui rendre son argent, puis, quand il reconnut que cela était vain et impossible, il s'enfuit désespéré. Au moment où il s'éclipsait, Je suis un misérable ! il venait de s'apercevoir tel qu'il était, et il était déjà à ce point éloigné de lui-même qu'il lui semblait qu'il n'était plus qu'un fantôme, et qu'il avait fui devant lui, en chair et en os, le héros à la main la blouse sur les reins, son sac rempli d'objets volés sur le dos, avec son visage résolu et morne, avec sa pensée pleine de projets abominables, le hideux galérien Jean Valjean.

L'excès du malheur, nous l'avons remarqué, l'avait fait en quelque sorte violer autre. Ceci fut donc comme une vision. Il prit véritablement ce Jean Valjean, cette face sinistre, devant lui. Il fut presque au moment de se demander qui était cet homme, et il en eut horreur.

Son cerveau était dans un de ces moments violents et pourtant affreusement calmes où la révérie est si profonde qu'elle absorbe la réalité. On ne voit plus les objets qui sont à devant soi, et l'on voit comme douleur de soi les figures qu'on a dans l'esprit.

Il se contempla donc, pour ainsi dire face à face, et en même temps, à travers cette hallucination, il voyait, dans une profondeur mystérieuse, une sorte de lumière qu'il prit d'abord pour un flambeau. En regardant avec plus d'attention cette lumière qui apparaissait à sa conscience à la conscience de lui-même humilié et que ce flambeau était l'évêque.

Sa conscience considéra tour à tour ces deux hommes ainsi placés devant elle, l'évêque et Jean Valjean. Il n'avait pas fallu moins que le premier pour détrompeir le second. Par un de ces effet singuliers qui sont propres à ces sortes d'extases, à mesure que sa révérie se prolongeait, l'évêque grandissait et resplendissait à ses yeux, Jean Valjean s'amoindissait et s'effaçait. A un certain moment il ne fut plus qu'une ombre. Tout à coup il disparut. L'évêque seul était resté.

Il remplissait toute l'âme de ce misérable d'un rayonnement magnifique.

Jean Valjean pleura longtemps. Il pleura à chaudes larmes, il pleura à sanglots, avec plus de faiblesse qu'une femme, avec plus d'effroi qu'un enfant.

Pen dant qu'il pleurait, la jour se laissait de plus en plus dans son cerveau, un jour extraordinaire, un jour ravissant et terrible à la fois. Si en ce premier moment il eut eu assez longue expérition, son abrutissement extérieur, son endurcissement intérieur, sa mise en liberté rejouie par tant de plans de vengeance, ce qui lui était arrivé chez l'évêque, la dernière chose qu'il avait faite, ce vol de quarante sous à un enfant, crime inouï et inutile par excès, tout cela se fut trouvé qu'il venait après la parole de l'évêque, tout cela lui revint et lui apparut, clairement, mais dans une clarté qu'il n'avait jamais vue jusque là. Il regarda sa vie, et elle lui parut horrible; son âme, et elle lui parut affreuse. Cependant un jour doux éclairait sa vie et son âme cette âme et sa vie lui semblait qu'il voyait Satan à la lumière du paradis.

Combien d'heures pleura-t-il ainsi! que fit-il après avoir pleuré? où alla-t-il? on ne l'a jamais su. Il paraît seulement avéré que, dans cette même nuit, le voiturier qui laissait à cette époque le service de Grenoble et qui arrivait à D.—vers trois heures du matin, vit un traversant la rue de l'évêché un homme dans l'attitude de la prière, à genoux sur le pavé, dans l'ombre, devant la porte de monseigneur Bienvenu.

LIVRE TROISIEME.

EN L'ANNEE 1817.

I

La'année 1817.

1817 est l'année que Louis XVIII, avec un certain aplomb royal qui ne manquait pas de tenté, qualifiait la vingt-deuxième année de son règne. C'est l'année où M. Brigaldre de serant était célèbre. Toutes les boutiques des perruquiers, surtout la pose et le retour de Bolsena royal, étaient badigeonnées d'encre et flourdelysées. On allait le temps canalisé de la cour. Lynch négociait tous les dimanches comme marguilliers de Saint-Sulpice. Les bonnes des Tuis au jardin du pais de France, avec son cordon rouge et son long nez, et cette majesté de profil particulière à un homme qui a fait une action d'éclat. L'action d'éclat connaissait M. Lynch était cet ouvrir, disait-on de Bordeaux, le 12 mai 1814 à tout la ville au pas le trop tôt à M. le duc d'Angoulême. De là sa paisle. En 1817, la mode engloutissait les petits garçons de quatre à six ans sous de vastes canquettes en cuir marcquisé à ovellon sous ressemblaient à des mitres d'Equateur. L'année inaugura était vêtue de lune, à l'autelchimne, les régiments exploit légions, au lieu des chiffres ils portaient les noms des départements. Napoléon était à Sainte-Hélène, et comme Angleterre lui refusait du drap vert, il faisait retourner ses vieux habits. En 1817, Pellegrini chantait, madame Bigottini dansait, Portier régnait, Ordry n'existait pas encore, damelin dit qui succédait à Forioso. Il y avait encore des Prussiens en France. M. Delalot était un parsuingue. La légitimité venait d'enfermer en coupant le poing, puis la tête, Pleigeler, à Carbonnet et à Tellerou. Le prince de Talleyrand, grand chambellan, et Pabbé Louis, ministre désigné des finances, se regardaient en riant du rire des deux augures; tous deux avaient coiffé, le 14 juillet 1790, la messe de la fédération au Champ-de-Mars, Talleyrand l'avait dite comme évêque, Louis l'avait servie comme diacre. En 1817. dans les contrecôtes de même Champ-de-Mars, on apercevait des gros cylindres de bois, gisant sous la pluie pourrissant dans l'herbe, peints en bleu avec des traces d'aigles et d'abeilles dédorées.
